

Sand zwischen den Zähnen

Es reibt mir den Zahnschmelz aus dem Mund, während dir die Sonne ins Gesicht greift.
Jeden Tag schmecken wir den Süden.
Wir kleben an den Steinen und das Meer grüßt.

The Exhibition deals with the idea of a walk-in backdrop. Wooden constructions were used to change the space in order to suggest a further spatiality and open up possible narratives. The different works enter into a dialogue based on the perspective and the actions of the viewer.

„Every sunset we gather in the same place. Some of us come on foot from home, others come by car from work, always joined by a silent noise of movement. Our numb feet are covered by sand from the long hot days, and sweat stands - from morning to night - on our faces.

Once everyone has arrived, we discuss the past work and distribute the tasks for the coming days. Conflicts are resolved by the silence of tired voices. We more and more get all tired together, everything falls slowly - at the same speed of our common fatigue.
The centre is the fire. The centre from which no gaze deviates, even as one speaks.“
